- the consequences if we do not collect the information;
- that this policy contains information about how you can access or correct your information or make a complaint about the Club; and
- whether we are likely to disclose the information overseas (and, if so, to which countries).

One way we notify you of the above is by making you aware of this policy.

If you give us personal information about others, we expect that you will tell them about this policy.

Is the Club required by law to collect personal information?

As a registered club, we have a legal responsibility to collect certain information about our members and guests pursuant to legislation, including the Registered Clubs Act 1976 (NSW) (Registered Clubs Act), Corporations Act 2001 (Cth) (Corporations Act), Gaming Machines Act 2001 (NSW), Liquor Act 2007 (NSW), Anti-Money Laundering and Counter-Terrorism Financing Act 2006 (Cth) and Work Health and Safety Act 2011 (NSW).

For example, when a person applies for membership of the Club, we must collect details including their name and address. We must display that person's name on the Club's notice board before our Board is able to consider their application for membership. We also may need to provide this information to any member of the general public who makes a request under certain legislation, including the Corporations Act.

Temporary members, guests of members and other visitors to the Club may be required to produce a recognised form of identification (such as a driver's licence or passport) to gain entry into the licenced premises.

If you elect to use our electronic ID scanners, we will collect information from your ID at the time you enter the Club. More information about our electronic ID scanners appears in our Frequently Asked Questions section below.

What happens if you don't provide your personal information?

If you don't give the Club your personal information, you may not be able to become a member of the Club, use the Club's services or facilities, or access the Club's premises. If you provide us with some but not all of the information sought, then, depending on the information withheld, we may be able to provide you with certain goods and services but only to a limited extent. For example, if you disable cookies on our websites, certain features and functions on our websites may not work. You have the option of not identifying yourself, or of using a pseudonym, when dealing with us. However, this will be limited to enquiries of a very general nature and only over the telephone or by email.

In most circumstances, you will be unable to deal with the Club anonymously or with a pseudonym because of our obligations under the Registered Clubs Act.

How do we use your personal information?

We use your personal information primarily to allow us to carry out the activities and functions listed above. We also use your personal information for secondary purposes related to those activities and functions, or when permitted under the Privacy Act.

If you have self-excluded yourself from the Club's premises and nominated other clubs or licensed premises from which you also want to be excluded, we may disclose your personal information to the exclusion program operator (if any) and/or to the clubs and licensed premises that you have nominated directly to the extent necessary to assist those clubs and licensed premises to comply with your self-exclusion.

The Club may also use the personal information we collect from you for direct marketing of products and services to you, including from third parties. Such products and services may include the provision of newsletters, competitions, announcements, campaigns or information about shows and entertainment at the Club or services offered by the Club.

You can refuse any direct marketing by opting out of direct marketing material on your membership application form or by updating your preferences on your account, by selecting unsubscribe on any marketing emails from the Club to you or by otherwise contacting our Privacy Officer at any time.

Does the Club disclose my personal information to others?

There may be times when we may need to disclose your personal information to third parties that we engage to provide services to or in connection with the Club, including our related entities, our insurers, ClubsNSW, our sponsors, our legal or financial advisers and other Club members.

Your personal information will only be disclosed to third parties for a purpose permitted by the Privacy Act and/or this policy and, where required, after obtaining your consent.

We may need to disclose your personal information to third parties for the purposes of allowing us to carry out the activities and functions mentioned in this policy.

For example, from time to time, the Club engages external companies to send direct marketing information (usually via email or SMS), carry out mail services, and provide IT storage and other services.

A third party will only receive your personal information from the Club where that information is necessary for that third party to provide services to or in connection with the Club and the Club will always require that the third party comply with the Privacy Act when dealing with your personal information.

We will also disclose your personal information to third parties if we are required or authorised to do so by law, including to law enforcement agencies, the Office of the Australian Information Commissioner, the Australian Electoral Commission, the Department of Communities and Justice and the Australian Taxation Office.

FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS

How does this policy apply to the Club's other businesses and its related entities?

The Club operates other businesses which trade under different names and brands, including but not limited to Zabou Bar and Bar 99.

For the purposes of the Privacy Act, a collection, use, disclosure or storage of your personal information by one of the Club's businesses which trades under a different business name is the Club's collection, use, disclosure or storage of your personal information.

If a business of the Club which trades under a different business name collects, uses, discloses or stores your personal information, it will comply with this policy when doing so.

The Club may have one or more related entities, also known as "related bodies corporate".

These related entities are separate legal entities to the Club, but are related to the Club in some way (e.g. the Club owns the related entity, or the related entity owns the Club).

The Privacy Act permits related entities to share personal information in certain circumstances.

If an entity related to the Club collects, uses, discloses or stores your personal information, it will comply with this policy when doing so (unless that entity has its own privacy policy).

Is there surveillance at the Club?

All venues operated by the Club are subject to video surveillance for security reasons, including to monitor the safety of members, guests and employees and to protect the Club's assets.

The footage may be used in disciplinary proceedings and/or to investigate incidents and may be disclosed to our legal representatives, our insurers and/or law enforcements agencies.

Do I have to use the electronic ID scanner to enter the Club's premises?

No. You are not obliged to scan your identification to enter the Club's premises.

If you prefer, you can request our staff to manually enter your name, address and signature (as required by the Registered Clubs Act) into the paper register and present your identification to staff who will confirm your details.

What information is collected from the electronic ID scanners?

The electronic scanners used by the Club use software to make a temporary copy of your ID, from which it extracts your full name, address, date of birth, signature and expiry date. The ID scanners do not extract a copy of your ID number (e.g. your licence number or passport number) or your card number (if any) from your ID. Once the required information has been extracted, the software deletes the full image of your ID.

Our electronic ID scanners store data in a secure and password protected database.

Why does the Club use ID scanners?

Under the Registered Clubs Act, we are required to maintain a register of the name, address and signature of temporary members and guests over the age of 18 who enter the Club's premises. This information must be retained by us for at least three years.

We are also required to take steps to verify the identity of any members and guests who use our gaming machines under the Anti-Money Laundering and Counter-Terrorism Financing Act 2006 (Cth) and its associated rules and regulations.

ID scanners are a secure way for the Club to collect information about persons entering the Club's premises.

ID scanners are also environmentally friendly in that they have helped the Club reduce its paper usage and storage of certain hardcopy records.

The collection of personal information of the individuals who choose to scan their identification is reasonably necessary for the activities and functions of the Club.

Will the Club collect my ID number?

Yes, but only in very limited circumstances. Under regulation 107 of the Gaming Machines Regulation 2019 (NSW), the Club is required to record certain information from a person's ID when a person tries to redeem a gaming machine ticket which is for more than $5,000 or if the ticket is two or more days old.

In those circumstances, you will be asked to present ID and the Club's staff will make a record of the nature of the ID presented and the ID number itself. The Club's staff will collect this information from you at the time you seek to redeem a ticket.

The Club does not otherwise collect licence or other identification numbers from individuals.

How do we hold and protect your personal information?

Personal information that is held by us is stored electronically and/or in hardcopy.

We take reasonable steps to ensure that your personal information is safe and secure from unauthorised access, use or disclosure.

Information that we store electronically is held in secure, encrypted and password protected databases.

Video surveillance is stored on our digital recorders, which are maintained in a restricted access area and password protected.

The Club does not store your financial information unless you have submitted a hard copy direct debit form with us. Paper forms are kept secure on the Club's premises.

Your personal information is securely destroyed when it is no longer needed or when it is out of date.

What happens if my personal information is involved in a data breach?

The Club has various security measures in place to protect your personal information from misuse, interference and loss, and from unauthorised access, modification or disclosure.

In the event that the Club's security measures are compromised and your information is the subject of a data breach, the Club will comply with its obligations for responding to data breaches outlined in the Privacy Act.

Upon becoming aware of a data breach, the Club will take urgent steps to contain the breach, mitigate any risk of harm and determine who may have been affected by the breach.

The Club will then assess the breach, including any potential for harm, and determine whether the breach is likely to result in serious harm to any person whose data was involved.

If the Club has reasonable grounds to believe that the breach is likely to result in serious harm to you, the Club will notify you of the breach as soon as possible. The Club will also notify the Office of the Australian Information Commissioner of the breach.

Following a breach, the Club will conduct a review of its security measures and implement any additional measures it considers necessary to enhance the security of your information.

Are we likely to disclose personal information overseas?

It is unlikely that we will disclose your personal information overseas. However, if you agree to information being put on our websites or social media pages then this could be accessed by other countries.

Our primary servers are stored locally at the Club's premises.

We also occasionally use software and secure cloud servers, which may also involve the use of servers that may be located in other countries and may also constitute a disclosure under the Privacy Act.

The Club will always require that any third party software and storage providers who are based overseas comply with the Privacy Act when dealing with your personal information.

Using the Club's websites and social media pages

The websites and social media pages operated by or in connection with us may collect personal information for the purposes outlined in this policy.

Any information collected by us as a result of your use of those websites and pages will be handled in accordance with this policy.

Those websites and pages may also use cookies and contain hyperlinks to other websites and pages, including those operated by third parties.

Any hyperlinks are provided for reference only. We do not have control over websites and pages operated by third parties and are not responsible for the content available on such websites or pages or the privacy practices of those third parties.

There will also be instances when dealing with the Club's websites where you will be redirected to a third party's website or platform. For example, you will be redirected to a third-party payment platform if you wish to make an online payment. Generally, we do not have control over these third-party providers and how they collect and handle any personal information that you provide to them. We also typically have limited access to the information they collect and hold. The Club does not accept any liability for the action of any such third-party providers. We strongly encourage you to read a third party's privacy policy as it will likely contain provisions which are specific to the third-party's activities and functions. For instance, a third-party payment platform provider will likely collect your billing and financial details and may disclose your financial information with your bank to verify your identity, to verify the information you have provided, to process your transaction and to advise us whether your payment has been successful.
